PREFACE

In presenting this book to the public we feel that it is very far from being complete, and no one regrets it more than the ones who have given of their time and energies to help compile what we have. Yet we have put forth our best efforts to make the history as full and as far-reaching as it was within our power to do, and we trust that where discrepancies have occurred or omissions may have been made hat it was not with any knowledge of ours. Many places where the information is very limited and appears to be wanting, it was all that we could get.

We wish to thank those who have taken an interest and helped to gather the record for this book, and would ask the members of the McNary Family to secure one of the books and to fill up any omissions, correct any errors or make additions for births and notations of deaths, so that at some future day, if it be desired to compile a later edition or a supplement, it may be done much easier and be better.

The expense of publishing has been guaranteed by voluntary contributions, which are to be reimbursed from the proceeds of sale of book, and we sincerely hope that every family will purchase as many as they can use, and thus help out the Committee, as it is not the intention to make any money, but to merely bear the expense of the publication. To this end we have made the price only nominal and within the reach of all. THE PUBLISHING COMMITTEE.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Every McNary household should have one of these Books that they may know the family history and that they will be prepared to keep record of at least their immediate families, of the Births and Deaths etc., for future records and should there be another edition published later to complete it.

There has been a limited number of these Books printed and if you do not have one you should secure it while the supply lasts. They are being sold at the cost of Publishing and can be had by addressing

INTRODUCTION

By J. R. McNary of Burgettstown, Pa.

Should the casual Student — in this year of grace 1907 deign to trace the rise and development of our great and rapidly expanding country, by referring to the pioneer annals of Western Pennsylvania—especially to the history of that portion located to the westward of the Monongahela, and south of the Ohio River—he will find abundant evidence to incite true wonder and admiration! In this wonderful region—a veritable hive of industry—where the verdant hills and fertile valleys are girded by bands of steel, and thickly studded with suburban village or embryonic city; where furnace and workshop belch forth flame; and where almost the entire region is a "city of derricks," tapping subterranean wealth in streams of oil and gas! Where hundreds of mines are distributing millions of tons of Black Diamonds to feed the furnace, the workshop and the warship of the greatest empire known to man! In the presence of this wonderful scene of activity and of applied mechanical power, the student of National progress may well pause, and, in unfeigned admiration exclaim, "How, and from whence came all this?" And will the cause of his unalloyed admiration be lessened, kind reader, to learn that but a little while ago—aye, four generations only, agone—all this entire region was unknown to civilization, constituting an unbroken forest, in undisputed possession of fierce and vicious beasts of prey—the wolf, the bear, and panther! pastured by the now almost extinct elk and buffalo! and peopled only by the aboriginal red man of the forest—the Mingo or the Delaware!

Contemporaneous with, and amid this intense scene of reclamation, or transformation, of "desert to garden"—of native grandeur to civilized magnificence—that immediately preceded the birth, and continued during the infancy of our great Republic, may be dated the origin, or foundation, of one of the most numerous and influential families of Scotch-Irish descent in the United States—the McNary family of Pennsylvania!

DATE OF SETTLEMENT.

The names, and dates of entry, of the first white settlers to penetrate and occupy this vast unsettled region—so intimately connected with the trials and privations of the early ancestors of this prominent Scotch-Irish family—have unfortunately been lost to succeeding generations! From the earliest "traditions" obtainable, we learn that the well-known French explorer, La Salle, in A. D. 1670 entered this region from Canada, descending the Allegheny and Ohio rivers—the La Belle Riviere of the early French geographers—as far South as the site of the city of Louisville, Kentucky. From this early date, there is an uninterrupted gap of 79 years in the history of this region, until, in A. D. 1749 we have an authentic account of a French exploring expedition from Canada, led by Celoron de Bienville, who, with a detachment of 215 French soldiers, accompanied by a party of 55 Indians, descended the "La Belle Rieviere" from the headwater of the Allegheny to the mouth of the Miami—by the course of which latter stream he returned to Canada! The Celoron party landed at intervals to bury leaden tablets, especially prepared for the expedition, proclaiming dominion over this entire region in the name of the King of France! There were, at this date, no permanent white settlements west of the Allegheny Mountains in Pennsylvania; but there may have been a few trading posts established by fur-dealers, and the region traversed by "trapping" and "hunting" parties, who visited the different Indian tribes for exchange of commodities.

George Washington, accompanied by Christopher Gist and six others, penetrated this region A. D. 1753 on a mission for the Governor of Virginia to the commandant of the French, at Fort Le Boeuff—now French Creek, Pennsylvania. At this date—four years after the Celoron expedition—we hear of a settlement at the mouth of Turtle Creek, Pennsylvania, by one John Frazer; and Christopher Gist, Washington's friend and scout, has established a home near the location of Connellsville, Pennsylvania. The succeeding year—A. D. 1754—the French, under Contrecoeur, came down in force from Canada, and established themselves at the "forks of the Ohio," erecting a "fort," which they named "Duquesne" (now Pittsburg). The French held possession of this disputed territory until General Forbes, in 1758, was dispatched from Carlisle, Pennsylvania, with an army of 7,000 English and Colonial troops to expel the invaders, and destroy the fortifications they had erected—which task was successfully accomplished November 25th of the same year (1758), forever ending French dominion east of the Mississippi!

After the expulsion of the French, the razing of Fort Duquesne and the erection of the English "Fort Pitt" on its ruins, there were few, or no permanent settlements made in this Western country until after the overthrow of Pontiac, and the ending of the great Indian uprising incited by the cunning wiles of this powerful chieftain—known in history as Pontiac's War—which occurred in 1763. After the subsidence of this great uprising against the whites, and when tranquility had, in a measure, been restored, the country began gradually to be occupied by the desultory immigration of the more restless and venturesome element from the eastern slopes of the Alleghenies.

But it was some ten years later, or about 1773, that the Western country began to be populated by the influx of that sturdy Scotch-Irish element from Eastern Pennsylvania and from Virginia, that gave this region its well-earned reputation for the probity, sobriety and moral stamina of its pioneer settlers. Concurrent with the close of the Revolutionary conflict with the mother country, in A. D. 1782, began the great flood-tide of emigration to the Western wilderness, "beyond the Alleganies;" and upon the crest of this wave came the ancestors of that numerous and influential Scotch-Irish Clan—the subject of this brief narrative—the McNary Family!

INTRODUCTION TO THE HISTORY OF THE M'NARY FAMILY.

By Rev. W. P. McNary.

Some time after the Civil War I asked my grandmother to give me the history of the McNary family. She became greatly interested and gave me a pretty full account of the older generations of the family, which I wrote down very carefully. I regret very much to say that that memorandum was lost. After her death I mentioned the loss of the memorandum to Mr. William Martin, Canonsburg, Pa. He told me to go and see his mother, that her maiden name was McNary and that she was familiar with the whole family history. I went with him immediately to call on his mother and she gave me a full and reliable account of the father of all of us and his five children. I wrote down her statement and read it over to her for correction. I remember that it agreed substantially with the account given me by my grandmother. Taking her history, which was given from memory, for a basis I undertook to verify her statements in every way possible. I wrote to the Recorder of York County, Pennsylvania, for an abstract of all the deeds and wills containing the McNary name in the records of that county. I also wrote to Brook County, West Virginia, for similar facts and went in person to Washington, Pennsylvania, and examined the records there. I also wrote to the session of Guinston congregation, of which our ancestors were members, for the session records concerning them. I am glad to say that every item of information received confirmed the statement of Mrs. Martin and I am convinced that her history, although given from memory, is substantially correct, and I am thankful that I was enabled to write what I believe to be an authentic history of our branch of the McNary family.

When I began to study this history I was under the impression that all the McNarys in this country belonged to the same connection. I clung to that theory with great tenacity for a long time. I opened correspondence with four different McNary families, one in Vermont, one in Kentucky, one in Tennessee and one in Red Stone, Virginia, and tried very hard to find the connecting link between us and these other families, but that missing link I was never able to find.

Finally when I was in Scotland in 1878 I went to the state archives in Edinburgh, where there is kept a complete record of all the births, baptisms and marriages of the people of Scotland. There I found page after page of McNarys, McNairys, McEnarys and McNairs, and I became convinced that these are different spellings of the same name. They were a very prolific stock and you will see from reading this history that in this respect our own McNary families are worthy descendants of their Scotch ancestors. One thing is sure, the McNary family is not in favor of "race suicide." If the history of the family could be written up to date there would not be less than 2,000 names, descendants of James McNary, of York County, Pennsylvania, and there are two other McNary families in the United States nearly as large, besides some scattering ones. To illustrate what I mean by scattering ones I must tell you of a man I found in Princeton, Indiana, that bore that name: He was as black as a crow. He had been a slave in one of the McNary families in Kentucky.

While speaking of the other McNary families in the United States I want to give you a little history which is worth preserving for the sake of some one who may some time make a more exhaustive research as to the origin of the family. It is in the form of an extract from a letter by a William S. McNary in the "Commercial Bulletin," of Boston, which was sent to me by Mrs. Margaret Spencer, of Collinsville, Connecticut.

"I believe in one of the old rare volumes of our public library there is a little information and an engraving of the family coat of arms. The latter I have seen and will send you a copy. * * * As it now stands McNary means, 'Son of the King.' In the old Celtic language Mac—Son, Na—of the, Ry—King. In Celtic it is written rig (pronounced re). French—roi, Spanish—rey, Italian—re, Latin—rex regis. The original form was McEnárig (pronounced McEnáry), which meant King's son or crowned prince. The name has been Anglicized into McNary, McNairy, McEnary, McHenery and McNair. The last two forms I am somewhat doubtful about. This I gather from an old Celtic scholar. He told me the family was Irish in origin and was descended directly from one of the sons of King Byron Boru, who was killed at the battle of Clontarf, when the Danish invaders were finally driven out of Ireland. People of the name may be found in County Limerick, Ireland. I understand there is a Castleton in that County, which town used to be called Castletown-McNary. In it is an old ruined abbey and a castle which once belonged to the family, and there is also a McNary burying ground."

It would appear from this account that all the original McNarys were Irishmen, but our ancestor and probably all the other McNary families lived many years in Scotland and are therefore veritable Scotch-Irish.

No doubt the original name was MacNary and the fact that many of our ancestors could neither read nor spell accounts for the variety in the spelling, especially when the name passed through the Scotch and English dialects.

I have had correspondence with four different families, besides our own York county family, that can trace no relation to each other.

First: The Vermont family.

Martin McNary, who was born in Greenock, Scotland, in 1723 (about twelve years younger than our ancestor James), came to this country before the Revolutionary War. He was a soldier in the French war. He had a son who was a lad and therefore must have been a widower, and he married a Mrs. Mahitible Blake, a widow of a soldier of the French war. He was also a soldier of the Revolutionary War and died in 1809 in his 86th year. He was the ancestor of a large and influential family who live mostly in New England. One of the descendants is now in Congress. Brigadier General William Henry McNary was Colonel of the Fifty-eighth New York Volunteers during the war. I have sent several of my circulars to the members of that family and have kept up correspondence with them.

Second: The Kentucky family.

A Mr. McNary who was nearly contemporary with James and Martin lived in Kentucky before the Revolutionary War. He is said to have come from Scotland.

He had five sons and two daughters who were raised in Muhlenburg County, Kentucky. A postoffice in that county is named for the family. They are Presbyterian people and appear to be prominent in the community. I got my information from Dr. H. F. McNary, of Princeton, Kentucky.

It was no doubt from that family that our colored brother got his name, as Princeton, Indiana, is only a short distance from McNary postoffice, Kentucky.

Third: Tennessee family.

Six brothers by the name of McNairy lived in Tennessee from the year 1787. The eldest of the six, John, was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, March 30th, 1762, and was elected Judge of the Superior Court of North Carolina by the General Assembly of that State on December 20th, 1787. Later he was appointed by George Washington Territorial Judge of the territory south of the Ohio river and held that office until the territory became a State, when he was by the Assembly appointed Judge of the Superior Court of the State of Tennessee. He was later appointed by George Washington District Judge of the Courts of East and West Tennessee and held that office until his death on November 10th, 1837, a period of 46 years in all. A county and a town in Tennessee were named for him and his brothers. There is quite a large connection of the descendants of these six brothers, and although they spell their name with an "i" they always regarded their name the same as that of the McNarys of Kentucky.

Fourth: Virginia family.

William McNary, of Red Stone, Old Fort, Virginia (now Brownsville, Pa.), was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. One of his grandsons, Forest McNary, is now living at Green Castle, Indiana, and takes an interest in the history of the McNary family. (See Supplement.)

With reference to all these separate families we may say that they appear in America about the same time, they all have the same characteristics, they are generally upright, substantial Scotch and Irish Presbyterians. They have the same physical characteristics and no doubt originated from the same old Celtic stock. Their relationship, while it may never be traced, may be taken for granted, and their history incorporated into one family record.

THE FAMILY OF JAMES M'NARY.

1.—James McNary (1), the father of us all, was born in Scotland about the year 1711. He was a man of medium size, spoke with a broad Scotch brogue and was a shoemaker by trade. The traditions of his family say that he was born in Scotland, that he lived a short time in Ireland and came to America with his family some time prior to 1760 and settled in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania. In the year 1760 he bought a tract of land from Samuel Esson for three pounds ten shillings. Again in 1764 he bought another farm from Robert McCall for forty-two pounds ten shillings. He had four sons and one daughter, John, James, Thomas, David and Jane—the daughter married a Mr. Robinson in York County, and as far as we know remained there all her life. Later in life he deeded part of his land to his son John and part to his son James. He and his son John were elected elders in Guinston congregation on the same day, May 15th, 1769. It is worthy of remark that all of his four sons were elected elders in the Associate Church, two of them in the old Chartiers congregation.

In the year 1783 he removed with his youngest son, David, to Hanover Township, Washington County, Pennsylvania, where he died at the age of 85 and was buried at Harmons Creek (now called Service) graveyard. His granddaughter, Mrs. Martin, who gave me the data for this early history, said she remembered distinctly being at his funeral and seeing the coffin lowered in the grave, although she was only six years old at the time. She kept his family Bible and it was in the possession of her son, William Martin, after her death, who gave it to me on November 24th, 1901. It is now deposited in the vault of the Citizens Trust Company at Canonsburg, Pennsylvania.

GENEALOGY OF THE JOHN M'NARY BRANCH OF THE JAMES M'NARY FAMILY.

Inasmuch as this is a history as well as a genealogy we will endeavor to bring out the dim and misty legends of the older generations and get all possible items of interest on record before it is too late. One of the objects of this genealogy is to create an interest which will stimulate the members to dig up all the old records that are available and as far as possible fill out the missing items in the history of the older generations.

2.—John McNary (2), son of James, of York County, Pennsylvania, was born about the year 1738, probably in Scotland, and came to this country with his father's family. The first we know of him he was elected an elder in the Associate Church of Guinston on May 15th, 1769. He lived on the old homestead in Chanceford Township, in York County, Pennsylvania, in a log house, weather-boarded and painted red, on a farm containing 340 acres, which he bought from his father. He was a prominent member of the Guinston Church until his death. We have no record of his size or general appearance. He sold his York County farm in 1801 for twelve hundred pounds, came to Washington County, Pennsylvania, and bought the old McNary farm in North Strabane Township. The farm was heavily timbered and quite hilly, but it had a strong spring of clear, pure water pouring out of the hillside which decided the location of the future home. No doubt the lines of that farm were blazed with the axe through the heavy timber, as was the custom in those early days. Having secured a future home for his fmily he returned to bring them out in the following spring. But that was not to be, for he died on the 16th or 17th of the folowing March—1802. The will was made and signed on the 15th, and probated on the 19th.

Joseph Reed and his son, John McNary, were made executors and as they lived thirteen miles from the county seat the funeral could not have been later than the 18th, although the date of his death is not recorded. A tombstone was erected to his memory in 1889 by Oliver R., James S., John C. and W. P. McNary in the Guinston graveyard.

He married Esther Boyle, who died a few years before him, some time between 1793 and 1799. By her he had thirteen children, Betsy, Mary, Margaret,

James, Malcolm, Esther, Nancy, John, Thomas, Alexander, Thomas, Jane and Janet, all of whom lived to be married except the two sons whose names were Thomas, both of whom died in their youth. Nine of the living children we believe came to Washington County together in 1802, James having come three years before and Betsy having married and remained in York county. Of these eleven children we have been enabled to get a pretty full account of the men and some of the women. Of some of the women we know but very little.

2½.—Betsy McNary (3), daughter of John McNary, of York County, was born July 22nd, 1765, and married William Douglas in York County, Pennsylvania.

3.—Mary McNary (3) was born October 26th, 1766, and married James McCoy. Had seven children, John, James, Esther, William, Elizabeth, Mary and Margaret.

4.—John McCoy (4) died young.

5.—James McCoy (4) married Eliza Trip.

6.—Esther McCoy (4) married Samuel Johnston.

7.—William McCoy (4) married Martha Chambers.

8.—Elizabeth McCoy (4) married Andrew Giffin.

9.—Mary McCoy (4) married Samuel Smith.

10.—Margaret McCoy (4) married Hugh Sloan.

13.—James McNary (3), oldest son of the head of the "John" branch, was the pioneer of the family to locate west of the Allegheny mountains. James was born in York County, Pennsylvania, November 11th, 1769. On October 22nd, 1897, he married Margaret Reed, of Chanceford, York County, who was born October 8th, 1772—daughter of Colonel Joseph Reed, of the Revolutionary Army, member of the State Legislature in 1780, who introduced the measure that led to the emancipation of the slaves of Pennsylvania; also member of the Continental Congress, 1787-88.

This same Joseph Reed was the drawer of the will, and one of the executors of John McNary (2), of Chanceford, York County, Pennsylvania (the founder of this branch of the "McNary family;" and who, about 1779, procured the removal of Rev. Joseph Smith and family to the Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, region; the said Rev. Smith being the second minister to locate west of the Allegheny mountains in Pennsylvania; and the first minister to locate west of Chartiers Creek, and for whom Smith Township (Washington County) was named at the date of its organization, July 15th, 1781. For this service of transporting Rev. Smith and family over the Alleghenies, to be stated pastor at Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, Joseph Reed received from Col. James Marshall (the first sheriff of Washington County) a tract of 190 acres of land in Cross Creek Township. The wagon used in the removal of Rev. Joseph Smith is said to have been the first "wheeled" vehicle to cross the Allegheny mountains—all previous transportation being by means of pack-horses.

Early in the spring of 1798, preceding by four years the emigration of the other members of his father's family, James McNary, with his wife, Margaret (Reed) McNary, crossed the Alleghenies and located upon part of the tract of land received by his father-in-law from Col. Marshall for the transportation of Rev. Smith it being within the bounds of the "Seceder" Congregation at Hickory.

Pennsylvania,—which was ever after their place of worship. From the effects of an injury, James McNary died July 12th, 1809, in his fortieth year and after a brief wedded life of 11 years. His remains are interred at Hickory, Pennsylvania, in the United Presbyterian Cemetery. His faithful wife survived her husband, as a widow, for 57 years, dying May 25th, 1866, aged 94 years, and was laid to rest by his side at Hickory, Pennsylvania.

Margaret McNary was a woman of remarkable memory, tact, and intellectual vigor, and was in every way well fitted to become a "Mother in Israel" in the successful rearing of her orphaned family amid the trials and privations incident to a pioneer life. A suitable monument has been raised to the memory of these honored ancestors in Fairview Cemetery, Burgettstown, Pennsylvania, by their grandsons, Joseph R. McNary (No. 201) and W. James McNary (No. 208).

402.—Malcolm Boyd Pollock (4), born February 9th, 1817. Died July 15th, 1825.

405.—John McNary (3), third son of the head of the John branch, was born November 2nd, 1776, in York County, Pennsylvania, and died February 11th, 1844. He was the oldest son at home at the time of his father's death and was executor of his father's will. He settled up his father's estate and brought the family to the new home in Washington County in 1802. He afterwards bought the farm and it remained in the possession of his children until the death of his son, James, in 1902, which was just 100 years. He was a man of medium height, rather slender, with high forehead, wore small side whiskers and had steel gray hair at the time of his death. He was ordained as an elder in the Chartiers Associate Church June 18th, 1816. It is worthy of remark that his father, his grandfather, his son and his grandson were elders in the same denomination, making a line of elders for five generations and it is to be hoped that the next generation will keep up the record. He married Jean Hill (who was born in 1780 and died January 11th, 1867), who survived him for many years. She was a woman of extraordinary character, of strong will, strong mind and strong constitution. She was famed for her hospitality and for her kind and jovial spirit in her old age. Her grandchildren have no more pleasant memories than that of their visits to their Grandmother McNary's home. In about twelve years after John McNary came to the old farm he built a large brick house on the hillside with high front porch and a commodious spring house. These, with pear trees, locust trees and the Lombardy poplar in the front yard and a large orchard on the hill above form a picture which we will keep in memory while memory lasts. These parents had nine children, William Hill, John, James S., Clarkson S., Oliver R., Esther, Jane, Alexander C. and Abbie Caroline.

406.—William Hill McNary (4) was born in the old homestead in North Strabane Township on November 26th, 1805, and died September 10th, 1877. He was a man of medium height and weight, dark hair, high forehead and wore small side whiskers. He had a very limited education, but was a great reader and had an intelligent knowledge of all current events. He was a man of remarkable will power, was a pioneer in the temperance cause and was somewhat celebrated as an abolitionist, and an active agent in the underground railway. He was elected an elder in the United Presbyterian congregation of Chartiers February 25th, 1841, a position which he held until his death. On February 28th, 1828, he married Margaret Murray, of Murray Hill, now Van Eman's Station, who was born January

Death of Mrs. Cora Davis

The death of Mrs. Cora (Ashby) Davis in Chicago, came as a surprise to many of her friends here. Mrs. Davis, known in Ladoga as Cora Ashby, grew up in Ladoga. She received her education in the schools of this community and her passing removes the last of the family of Silas F. and Ellen Ashby. Eugene died in 1932, and Edgar five months ago.

Mrs. Davis was born on the Ashby farm south east of Ladoga, September 12, 1861 The family moved to Ladoga about 1880 and for many years occupied the home on the lot on Main Street now known as the Edgar Ashby residence. She married Henry T. Davis December 13, 1887. Mr. Davis was a salesman and for several years Mrs. Davis accompanied her husband on his business travels. In 1895 they settled in Chicago, and until his death March 21, 1918 Mr. Davis was engaged in the real estate and insurance business in Chicago and its suburbs. Mrs Davis died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Merrill Johns, 7022 Constance Avenue, May 28, 1938. The funeral service, last Tuesday May 31, were in charge of Rev. Harold L. Bowman at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Davis died of a heart affection brought on, largely by the shock of the sudden death of her brother, Edgar, last December.

She leaves two children, Mrs Ellen Johns and Harold A. Davis, and five grand children, Janet Johns, Warren and Merrill B. Johns Jr., Donna and Allyn Davis, and two great grand children, Judith and Joan Warren, all of Chicago.

Cora Ashby Davis was one of the popular girls of that period, in Ladoga when the Normal School brought so many interesting young folks into this community. Those who remember her will recall her large eyes, like her mothers, and her quiet refined and somewhat queenly manners, which stayed with her in later years.

It was expected that she would spend part of this summer here in her girlhood home among the friends of her youth, but all of the Ashby children had a strong affection and sympathy for each other, and Cora was never able to recover fully from the loss of her younger brother, Edgar.

GENEALOGY OF THE THOMAS M'NARY BRANCH.

In taking up this part of the genealogical history,—the Thomas McNary Branch,—we have experienced much difficulty in obtaining accurate and reliable dates of some of our early ancestry, but on the whole, we feel the record can be relied upon as correct.

2.—Thomas McNary (2), son of James, the Scottish pioneer, was born on his father's farm in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania. The date of his birth, we cannot be absolutely certain of, but believe it to have been about 1744. He was married in 1766 to Jennet Robinson in York County, who was born in 1747. We find, by consulting "Spangler's History and Sketches of York County Familes," that Thomas McNary was a volunteer in the Revolutionary War, and captain of the Fourth Company of the Fourth Battalion of the "Flying Camp" in 1776, which marched to New Jersey and took part in the Battle of Trenton. Also that one David McNary, brother of Thomas, was a private in this same company commanded by Captain Thomas McNary. It may be a matter of interest to know that David McKinley, grandfather of President William McKinley, was a member of this battalion.

In December, 1782, this same Thomas McNary, following the line of emigration westward, purchased a farm in what is now North Strabane Township, Washington County, Pennsylvania, of James Allison,—250 acres of land for "375 pounds specie, lawful money of Pennsylvania," situated on the forks of Shirtee Creek on Sugar Tree Run, bounded by lands of Dorce Penticost, and to a line of said tract run by Henry Taler (Henry Taylor) and lands of John McDall (McDowel). For this tract he received a warrant dated October 29th, 1784, and on the 21st of February, 1785, it was surveyed to him as "Sugar Tree" and contained 219 acres. This farm was inherited by his son, Matthew, and continued his until his death, when it passed into the possession of John Struthers, and is now owned by Henry Mollenauer.

Thomas McNary was "a large, fine-looking man" of a robust physique suited to the requirements of pioneer life, such as he was afterwards called on to endure. His church connection was in the Chartiers Seceder or Associate Congregation, Canonsburg, of which he was ordained an elder some time prior to 1799. He continued to reside on his farm until his death, which occurred in 1820, aged about 75 years. His body was interred in what is now known as Oak Spring Cemetery, Canonsburg. In his will he makes provision for the legal freedom of a servant, "Jean Parkinson," who had been practically free for many years before this time.

This same Thomas McNary, of Washington County, son of James, of York County, had six children, five sons and one daughter—James, David, Matthew, Joseph and Samuel.

3.—James McNary (3), the eldest of this family, was born in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania, in 1766, and died in 1841. He received his education in the subscription schools of that period. He was married March 7th, 1811, to Anna Caldwell, born 1791, died 1868, of Washington County, and after a few years of married life in North Strabane Township, they moved to Nottingham Township and located on a farm in said Township, Washington County, Pennsylvania, near the village of Muntown, and attended the Pigeon Creek Seceder Church of which he was an elder, for many years. At his death his body was laid to rest in the cemetery at that place.

To these parents were born nine children, five sons and four daughters, as follows: James, Thomas, Robert, Samuel, David, Jane, Elizabeth, Anna and Esther.

4.—James McNary (4), son of James, the oldest son of the family, a quiet, unassuming man, was born in 1816, died January 9th, 1890. He lived on the home farm near Muntown, Washington County, and for fifteen years discharged the duties of Justice of the Peace, being frequently called on to perform the marriage ceremony in the surrounding neighborhood. His opportunities for education were somewhat limited, being confined to the subscription schools of those times. But having an ambition to learn, and being a diligent student and apt scholar, he succeeded in fully mastering the branches then included in the common school curriculum.

On January 28th, 1802, he married Mary Anderson, born June 8th, 1783. Soon after they removed to a farm purchased near Bloomingdale, Jefferson County, Ohio. Here he devoted himself to agricultural pursuits. But while thus engaged, not in any haphazard, but in an intelligent and successful manner, he was not unmindful of his duty as a citizen of the country that guarded and protected him in his political rights. He was a member of the General Assembly of Ohio Legislature in 1821-1822, 1827-1828, 1837-1838. He was a member of the Board of Commissioners, 1815-1820, 1832-1835. Also at an early period he was chosen an associate judge, his district extending over a large part of Eastern Ohio. In 1828 she married Thomas Kyle, who was born in 1800, the marriage ceremony being performed by the Rev. Thomas Hanna, D. D. They lived on their farm, located near Cadiz, Harrison County, Ohio.

Early in life he identified himself with the church, and for some years has been an active worker in the Second United Presbyterian Church of New Concord, Ohio, where he is a ruling elder. He is unmarried and at home with his father.

469.—Rev. Melvin Grove Kyle, D. D. (6), born May 7th, 1858, on a farm in Harrison County, Ohio. His early education was received in the public schools, and he was graduated from Muskingum College in the class of 1881 with degree of A. B. His theological training was obtained in the United Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Allegheny, Pennsylvania, from which he was graduated in 1885. He was licensed to preach the Gospel by the Presbytery of Muskingum the same year. In a short time he received a call from the Seventh United Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, which he accepted, and where he has continued to labor since May 1st, 1886. He received the degree of D. D. in 1893. Dr. Kyle is a noted Egyptologist, member of Die Vorderasiatischen-Gesselschaft, of Berlin, and of the department of Archaeology of the University of Pennsylvania, also a contributor to archaeological journals.

Dr. Kyle was twice married, his first wife being Susie Young Mitchell, whose death with her twin daughters occurred in 1891. He was again married about 1895 to Annie Jane Dempster, who died a few years later, leaving one daughter, Annie Dempster. Dr. Kyle is a hard worker, and leaves a deep impression on all with whom he comes in contact. He is at home to his friends at Frankfort, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

In addition, he has an enviable standing as an author, having issued a medical text book on "Diseases of the Nose and Throat." He married Jeannetta Emma Smith. Their church home is in the United Presbyterian Church.

and proved proficient in this line of work. In October, 1857, she was married to David McNary, of Nottingham Township, Washington County, Pennsylvania. For further record of this family, see the genealogy of David McNary (153-162).

475.—William P. Kyle (5), son of Jane McNary and Thomas Kyle, born in 1836 in the homestead near Cadiz, Ohio, continued at home with his father on the farm until the breaking out of the Civil War in 1861, when he volunteered for the defense of his country in the Forty-third Ohio Infantry. Mr. Kyle was one of the fortunate men in the army, serving nearly four full years in the Army of the West or Cumberland, and during that time never failed to accompany his regiment on a march, was in every engagement in which his regiment took part, never sick enough to be in a hospital, never a prisoner, and never wounded. The regiment never failed to hold their ground and rout the enemy from their front. For three days in May, 1862, at Corinth they were in line of battle continuously. In October of the same year, a second battle was fought at Corinth, in which they had an active part. During their campaign in Tennessee they suffered much for clothing and military equipments. The Forty-third Ohio Infantry was among those who accompanied General Sherman in his march from Atlanta to Savannah, during the last days of this gigantic struggle. While fraught with many trials and hardships, it is looked back to with gratification, seeing the great results it brought about.

About 1866 he married Tillie Hurford. To them were born five sons and one daughter: Ulysess, Asenath, Thomas, William P., John and Algernon. Their church home is at Cadiz, Ohio, and their place of residence Bloomfield, Ohio.

This, in 1889, he sold and accepted the editorial management of the "Weekly World Herald," which position he filled for 12 years, resigning in August, 1901, to accept the editorial management of the "Nebraska Farmer,"— a farm journal that was started in 1858 by Ex-Governor Robert W. Furness, and quite popular throughout the West during the past 30 years. In 1905 he resigned the editorship of this journal to accept the position of associate editor of the "Twentieth Century Farmer," a farm magazine and agricultural journal published in Omaha, a position which he still holds.

In 1883 he emigrated from his native home at Unionport, Ohio, to a 920-acre farm and stock ranch near Creighton, in Knox County, Nebraska. On this he lived four years, when he sold it and moved to Omaha. This was during the boom days of that city, and he also shared some of its misfortunes. In the meantime he secured other ranch interests in Cherry County, Nebraska, which he operated by proxy until 1903, when these were disposed of. In addition to his editorial work, which has already been spoken of, he has been actively identified with the agricultural interests of the State adopted as his home. He has been a member of the State Board of Agriculture for 10 years, a member of the Board of Managers of the State Fair for the past three years, and for the past 16 years has been a member of the Board of Managers of the Douglas County Agricultural Society and Secretary of the Association for 14 years.

THE DAVID BRANCH OF THE McNARY FAMILY

By J. R. McNary, Corresponding Secretary McNary Association, Burgettstown, Pa.*

THE EMIGRATION OF DAVID McNARY TO THE LAND OF PROMISE.

"For the Lord thy God bringeth thee into a good land."

1.—James McNary (1) (see at beginning of John Branch).

2.—David McNary (2), of Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania, bought a farm in Hanover Township, Washington County, Pennsylvania in A. D. 1783 for "75 pounds lawful money of Pennsylvania." The deed for this land is recorded in Washington County, Pennsylvania, although there is some doubt whether his residence was not over the State line, in Brooke County, West Virginia. Born in A. D. 1757, three years prior to his father—James McNary, the original ancestor—locating upon the "McNary" homestead in Chanceford Township, York County, Pennsylvania, it is quite probable that David, the fourth and youngest son, was born in America. In person, David was a large man and of a "sandy" complexion. His wife's maiden name was Esther Cowden—no doubt a sister, or near relative, of the ancestor of the Cowden family, who located upon a part of the "George Washington tract," in Mt. Pleasant Township, Washington County, at an early day. David McNary died A. D. 1817. His will is on record at Washington, Pennsylvania. His son William and John Cowden—no doubt a brother-in-law—are named executors; and of his estate he bequeaths the one-eighth each to his wife, Esther, and to William, Margaret, wife of John Ramsey; Sarah, Mary, wife of Samuel Martin; Elizabeth, Esther and Jane, his seven children. Some doubt exists as to the place of burial of David, and of his venerable father, James—the "original ancestor." William McNary, the only son of David, together with his immediate descendants, are interred in the old graveyard at or near Paris, Washington County, Pennsylvania; but the final resting place of the "pioneer" David and of his aged father is not certainly or definitely located—the imperfect markings of all graves of that early date being

*There being no descendant of David McNary known to the publication committee to whom to apply for a compilation and history of the descendants of David, the youngest of the McNary quartet, the writer reluctantly accepted the task, and herewith presents as full and complete a record of this branch, as now seems possible, from the meager data available, after the lapse of a century from the days of the "pioneer" David: For the inaccuracies and imperfections,—either of omission or commission,—in the performance of his labor, the writer begs of the reader his kind indulgence. J. R. M.

now illegible. While it is possible that their remains are interred in the old Paris, or Harmon's Creek, Cemetery, where many of the succeeding generations lie, yet it is quite probable that the remains of "Old James," of his pioneer son David, and of David's wife—Esther Cowden—are at rest in the ancient cemetery, or burying place, of the old Seceder Congregation, known as "The Tent," in pioneer days—located some five miles south or southwest of Paris, Pennsylvania, but within the West Virginia border—which seems to have been the earliest burial place established in the Holliday's Cove region. David McNary was an elder in the old Dr. Anderson's Harmon's Creek congregation, under whose teachings his family were reared, and the principles, or doctrines of Calvanism instilled, which left its impress upon the succeeding generations and lent to the pioneer settlers of Western Pennsylvania a reputation for moral and religious probity second to no other region of our country.

At the date of the location and settlement of David McNary upon the waters of Harmon's Creek in 1783, the condition of all the region westward of the Monongahela River was most serious; Indian raids, or incursions of the savage tribes from west of the Ohio River upon the unprotected settlers were frequent, and a continuous menace to the pioneers of the northwestern portions of Washington County—being on the extreme boundary of the advance line of civilization! For some time prior to this date, an "outpost," or "military station," had been maintained at Holliday's Cove, on Harmon's Creek, near the outlet to the Ohio, and garrisoned by a detachment of Colonial "militia," or "minute" men, whose duty it was to look after the safety of the early settlers. The earlier settlements were always made under the protection and in the vicinity of these frontier "outposts;" hence it was that frequent settlements, including but a few families, in exposed localities, were made miles in advance, leaving much of the wilderness to the rear, unclaimed and unoccupied. In A. D. 1783 large tracts of Washington and Beaver Counties were yet unsettled, unsurveyed and unclaimed under the patent laws of the State; and all of the country to the west and north of the Ohio River, was yet an unbroken forest in possession of the native Indian tribes of the northwest.

By what means of transportation, or by what route over the Allegheny Mountains, David McNary, accompanied by his aged father, reached the scene of his new abode upon the western borders of civilization, must now be a matter of conjecture! We know that at this time no "highways" had been cut through the dense and heavily timbered forest westward from the Monongahela to the Ohio! There existed the old "Indian" or "Mingo" trail, which traversed this region, from Fort Duquesne, at the "forks of the Ohio" (Pittsburg) to the "Mingo Bottoms" on the Ohio River, below Steubenville—passing nearby Holliday's Cove, on Harmon's Creek. If David McNary and his father crossed the Alleghenies by the military road opened by General Forbes in his march over the mountains to capture and destroy Fort Duquesne, in 1758, he probably reached his new home from Pittsburg over the "Mingo" trail, via Robinson's Run and Cherry Valley, crossing Raccoon Creek and valley at the fair grounds, Burgettstown; thence, by Harmon's Creek, to the military "outpost" in the near vicinity of his chosen home, in the new settlement on the eastern banks of the Ohio. But, as his brothers—James, in 1780, and Thomas, in 1782—had preceded David to the "promised land" beyond the mountains, and had already settled in the Chartiers region of Washington County—the "Shirtee" of pioneer days—it would seem that these brothers probably crossed the mountains via Raystown (Bedford) and by the "Cumberland" road, to "Redstone Old Fort" (now Brownsville), on the Monongahela; whence, crossing this stream, they would be within one day's journey of their destination upon Chartier's Creek. At this early day the emigration over the mountains, from Eastern Pennsylvania, was by either the one or the other of these routes; and the latter, or southern route, seems to have been the popular one from the frontier "outposts" back to the older settlements in the East, from whence all needed supplies were obtained. Conceding, then, that the preceding brothers—James and Thomas—had come West over the southern or "Raystown" road to "Redstone Old Fort," or Brownsville, on the Monongahela—what more natural than that father and brother should have been "admonished" to "journey through the wilderness" by the same route? Once at "Redstone Old Fort," father and son would have the benefit of water transportation (by flat boat) down the Monongahela and the Ohio Rivers to locate under the protection of the garrison at Holliday's Cove—thus saving a troublesome and unsafe journey through the wilderness of the interior.

While the history of the hardships and privations encountered and overcome by these brave and and intrepid ancestors, in reaching and establishing new homes in this "wilderness of promise" is now lost to succeeding generations, their descendants are fortunate in possessing the absolute knowledge that when James McNary and his youngest son, David, had, in 1783, established a home on the waters of Harmon's Creek, in Washington County, Pennsylvania, that all of the "McNary Family," viz., the venerable James McNary, the "founder;" James, his second son, in 1780; Thomas, the third son, in 1782; and now David, the fourth son, in 1783—with their families—were all permanently established west of the Alleghenies—save only the eldest son, John, alone of the McNary quartet yet remaining upon the homestead at Chanceford, Pennsylvania—where they reared large families, under all the trials and privations incident to a pioneer life; and subject to the additional menace of numerous Indian incursions from the hostile tribes beyond the Ohio, and of the upper lake regions; and that John McNary, the oldest son, before his demise in 1802, also provided a home for his family in the "new country" adjacent to the homes of his brothers—James and Thomas—on the waters of "Shirtee;" whence his family, after his death, all removed. And the advent of the nineteenth century thus witnessed a "reunion" of the McNary ancestry in a region destined soon to become the scene of the greatest agricultural and industrial activity on the face of the globe! In a "goodly" region, of which it might well be said to them, as to God's chosen people of old, "For the Lord thy God bringeth thee into a good land; a land of brooks of water, of fountains, and of depths that spring out of valleys and hills; a land of wheat and barley and vines; a land of oil, olive and honey; a land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack anything therein"—almost a literal description of Washington County, Pennsylvania, and then not nearly all is told!

Amid such scenes, "in trial and privations many," were the pioneer ancestors of the "McNary" Clan domiciled in this "goodly" land. Be it ever the aim and ambition of their descendants to emulate the virtues and venerate the memory of their worthy ancestors, to the most remote generations! And especially is it a matter of congratulation to their descendants of the present day, that their ancestors had neither part nor parcel in the unenviable "Williamson Expedition" from this region, in A. D. 1782, that encompassed the brutal massacre of the "Moravian" Indians at Graudenhutten,—thereby placing an indelible stain upon the fair fame, not only of this region, but of the Scotch-Irish race as well! And a still further source of satisfaction have this numerous clan, in the knowledge that their ancestors were at the post of duty in the Revolutionary conflict, fighting in the cause of freedom, and not fleeing—as did not a few—behind the Alleghenies, to shun a patriot's duty to his country in its hour of need!

The noble deeds our sires have done,
The mighty conflicts they have won—
In memory's hall, we store them all;
And fain accord, with due delight,
All rev'rence to the memory bright
Of all who honored Freedom's call!

NOTE.

The writer regrets the extremely meager knowledge now obtainable and here presented, of the names and location of the descendants of the daughters of David McNary; caused largely, no doubt, from the fact that David's home was farther removed from his kindred than any of his brothers' locations; and also from the early dispersion of his daughters to homes of their own, in locations remote from their kinsfolk of the "McNary" name. The descendants of his daughter Mary—Mrs. Samuel Martin (See No. 11)—are also descended from the "John McNary" branch of the family, and are enumerated therein.

For trace of David McNary's other descendants we are compelled to look almost exclusively to the line of descent of his only son, William, No. 25; and, of the descendants of this William's nine children, we are again confined chiefly to the line of his son William, No. 44—grandson of David—to continue the branch to the present generation.

Descendants of Ebenezer McNary, No. 43, son of William, are known to reside in Missouri, and other parts of the West, trace of whom, we regret to say, is not now available for this publication. There are, also, "McNarys" in the States of Indiana and Illinois who seem to trace their ancestry to Robert McNary, No. 35, son of William, of whose descendants we have no knowledge—but who was last heard of in the Coshocton, Ohio, region. Of the descendants of the children of William McNary, No. 25, other than of his youngest son, William, No. 44—herewith given—the writer has, unfortunately, no trace. If all who know themselves to be descendants of the "David" branch of the McNary family will make such fact known to the Secretary of the McNary Association, a note of such relationship will be placed on file, from which a revised record of this branch may be compiled for future publication.

Martin McNary Family

MARTIN McNARY FAMILY

( Copied from Book published by Rev. W. P. McNary )

The head of this family was born at Greenock, Scotland. His father, whose name, according to tradition, was David, went with a wealthy gentleman to Dungarvon, Ireland, as a land steward, and there died. His widow returned to Greenock, with all the family except Martin, who remained with their employer. He afterwards went to sea as a cabin boy, was captured and held prisoner for a while by some hostile nation, and finally came to America. Here he served in the French war, and came to Haddam, Connecticut, bringing a bundle of clothes, a watch, and a dying message from a man whom he had nursed and buried, to his widow, Mrs. Mahitible Blake. This widow he married some time before the Revolution, and from that time until his death he lived in Haddam. He served in the Revolutionary war, and the name on his Sergeant's certificate was "Kenary." His son James always persisted in writing his name "Canary," but all his descendants now write it McNary.

Martin had a brother, John, who visited him at Haddam before the war, "but neither of them being clerkly the family correspondence was not kept up."

At the time of his marriage with Widow Blake, he had a son, MARTIN, "a young lad" (probably by a former marriage), who settled in Litchfield, Conn., and left a son George, whose descendants still live there. This George got his wife at Fishkill, New York.

There was a Martin McNary, who came from Connecticut to Fishkill, N. Y., and died there in 1812, who in all probability was the same person. We will so consider him, and give his genealogy in this connection.

The Elder MARTIN was a Catholic, supposed to have become so under the influence of his Foster Father in Ireland. He was "truthful, the soul of honor, anxious to have his children early baptized and taught Christian doctrine." "His wife was of Puritan stock, a near relative of the Missionary, David Brainard, but being early orphaned, was brought up in the Church of England." The children all followed the mother instead of the father in their religion. The whole family is said to be of a mechanical turn of mind.

Kentucky Family

THE KENTUCKY FAMILY

( Copied from Book Published by Rev. W. P. McNary )

The head of the Kentucky family of McNarys is supposed to have come from Scotland, some time previous to the Revolution, and to have settled either in New Jersey or Pennsylvania.

His eldest son was born in 1755, but whether in this country or in Scotland is uncertain. From the date of the birth of his eldest son it would appear that he was about the right age to be a brother of JAMES, of York county, Pa., or MARTIN, of Haddam, Conn., and it is possible that he was the JOHN referred to previously. According to the traditions of the family, he moved to North Carolina in his old age. He had five sons and two daughters.

JOHN, Hopkins county, Ky., b. 1755, married an Irish lady named Hilary, went from North Carolina to Kentucky, it is supposed not far from the year 1812, died Dec. 9, 1830, and was buried in the family burying ground of his brother WILLIAM. He had three sons, Samuel, Alexander and William, who went South and whose history is not known, and one daughter, who married Mr. Logan, and died, leaving two children.

WILLIAM, Muhlenburg county, Kentucky, born 1757, settled at Walnut Hill, seven miles from Lexington, Ky., some time previous to 1790, at which place all his children were born; married Ann Campbell, a Scotch lady. He and his wife were both "earnest and devoted members" of the Walnut Hill Presbyterian Church, one of the oldest churches in that country, the grounds of which adjoined their farm. In the year 1812, he removed to a farm in Muhlenburg county, near Elwood, which was formerly called McNary Post Office. He died in the year 1813, and was buried on his estate.

ALEXANDER, personal history not known.

TWO SONS, are supposed to have lost their lives in the Revolutionary war, one at the battle of Cow Pens, and the other on board of a Prison Ship, in Charleston Harbor.

ELIZABETH, married John Niblack, of North Carolina, during the war, and was the Grandmother of Judge Wm. E. Niblack, of the Supreme Bench of Indiana.

JANE, born 1767, lived a single lady with her brothers John and William, died Oct. 20, 1813, and was buried in the family burying ground in Muhlenburg county Kentucky.

WILLIAM, Muhlenburg county, Kentucky, had eight children.

Hugh Washington, Muhlenburg county, Kentucky, born November 26, 1790, removed with his father to Muhlenburg county in 1812, went to Saline Lick, Ill., in 1815; went to Columbia, S. Carolina, in 1817; and returning in 1826, he settled on his father's place, the name of which he changed from McNary P. O. to Elwood; married Sarah A. Scott, of Columbia, Dec. 26, 1822. He is said, by an old neighbor, to have been a "high-minded, kind-hearted, benevolent gentleman, of incorruptible integrity and unblemished honor." ## THE McNAIRY FAMILY

(Copied from Book Published by Rev. W. P. McNary.)

It is generally believed by the McNarys of Kentucky, and the McNairys of Tennessee, that their families were originally one, and that the i did not originally belong to the name of the latter family, and therefore we give a brief sketch of it, as part of this history:

JOHN McNAIRY, the eldest of six brothers, was born the 30th of March, 1762, in Lancaster county, State of Pennsylvania, and on the 20th day of December, 1787, was elected a Judge by the General Assembly of North Carolina and held the first Superior Court that was held in Nashville, in the County of Davidson. He continued in office until what is now called the State of Tennessee, by the Cession act, became the Territory South of the Ohio River. He was then appointed, by George Washington, then President, one of the Territorial Judges, and held that office until the Territory became the State of Tennessee, and was then appointed, by the General Assembly, one of the Judges of the Superior Court of that State, and held that office until he was appointed, by the then President Washington, District Judge of the Courts of East and West Tennessee. Having been in office without intermission for forty-six years, he died on the 10th day of November, 1837, at his residence near Nashville, Tennessee." He had no children.
